

An undertaking without peer

O.C. Register - 7-18-92

Kathi Kent Volzke/For The Orange County Register

Tearing it down: The city decided to demolish the Huntington Beach Pier and start over after a 1988 storm ripped off its tip. Work began in 1990.

Kathi Kent Volzke/For The Orange County Register

Putting it together: Workers began driving 312 concrete pilings January 1992. A surf-band fest and race helped foot the $11.8 million b

Kathi Kent Volzke/For The Orange County Register

Finishing it off: The pier comes back to life this weekend with Pierfest '92, starting with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10 a.m. today, followed by boat races, children's entertainment, music and dancing through Su. Restaurants and shops downtown also will hold celebrations.

REF. PAM
HUNTINGTON
BEACH PIER
CLIPPINGS

For Reference

Not to be taken from this room